

THE ACCELA CIVIC PLATFORM ECOSYSTEM

BUILT TO CONNECT, NOT DISRUPT

THE CHALLENGE

Public sector agencies rely on multiple systems to manage community development and safety including permitting, inspections, planning, licensing, and code enforcement. While each department serves a critical purpose, information is often fragmented across separate platforms. This makes it difficult to access complete records, enforce consistent cross-departmental workflows, and respond quickly to public inquiries or audits.

A SMARTER ARCHITECTURAL APPROACH

Modern agency architecture does not require a "rip and replace" of your core financial or geographic systems. Instead, it focuses on connecting information and workflows in a way that supports daily operations and long-term compliance. In this model, your existing systems remain authoritative in their domains while Accela provides a centralized engagement and workflow layer that ensure visibility, control, and continuity across the entire lifecycle of a record.

ACCELA AS THE CONNECTING LAYER

Operational Stability

- No disruption to mission-critical systems
- Reduced duplication of data and manual entry

Risk Reduction

- Centralized access controls for staff and contractors
- Defensible audit trails for every permit and inspection
- Consistent enforcement of local ordinances and policies

Scalability

- Supports cloud readiness and digital transformation
- Adapts to changing legislative mandates and staffing levels
